Greetings form AIFUCTO

The Joint Action Committee of APGCTA, GCGTA-A P & ACTA -AP deem it a great privilege to announce that the XXXI Statutory Conference of AIFUCTO will be held at Tirupathi, Andhra Pradesh from 7th to 9th January 2022. With the approval of NEC of AIFUCTO, the Joint Action Committee for College Teachers (JAC), A.P is hosting this prestigious academic conference in physical mode. We cordially invite the participation of our beloved delegates and faculty from all affiliated Teachers organizations of AIFUCTO.

The theme of the National Seminar

“NEP – 2020 and the future of Higher Education – Post Covid Scenario”

Sub theme:

- NEP 2020 – A Comparative review on Education Reforms in India
- Post Covid Developments in higher education in India – Issues & Challenges
- The Impact of Covid on teaching, learning and research in higher education
- Conceptualizing the new normal in post covid scenario exploring the role of technology and market.

The Conference is held to uphold democratic values of education system that has been put on the anvil of rationalization, privatization and commercialization; Higher education has become an expensive commodity. The Policies of Government have become a tough nut to crack for the common man. Insufficient and inadequate budget allocation in higher education, agriculture and public sector companies proves the point. Policies were framed and implemented at the helm of affairs without the genuine involvement of parliamentarians, state legislators and other stakeholders in the field of education and agriculture. Such policies will hamper the growth of the nation - physically and intellectually. The federal structure of the nation is put to acid test with the introduction of Higher education Commission. Public funded institutions are on the brink of extinction as government policies are moving towards existence of private and corporate institutions. A strong attempt is being made to centralize higher education against constitutional principles that support centre – state relations in higher education. AIFUCTO has been representing these issues to the policy makers at both central and state level as a constitutional right.

The XXXI AIFUCTO Statutory Conference shall conglomerate the eminent academicians, able administrators and efficient teachers to have a decent discussion on the recent challenges posed by the Covid-19 on the education system in general and the New Education Policy in particular to show a distinct path to the teachers' movement based on integrity and accountability.

The Conference will be unique and interesting for it is going to provide solutions to a number of challenges to student, parents, teachers and stakeholders who faced hardship during these critical times. The Conference shall lay emphasis on the constitutional and democratic values of the education system besides the existence of public funded institutions. The ambiance, gusto and fervor that participants have experienced in the earlier physical conferences shall be maintained and sustained for the academic and professional welfare of the learned gathering. Seasoned resource persons, dynamic leaders, and excellent orators on vital issues will be invited to make the conference a purposeful and powerful one. This conference shall lay a path for future course of action in a democratic way. We hope to entertain you with lots of useful information after a thorough discussion.

About the Conference:

“NEP-2020: The future of Higher Education – Post Covid Scenario”

The Covid Pandemic has impacted every aspect of human life. It took lives, disrupted livelihood and unsettled the existing patterns of interaction. In the sphere of Higher Education Institutions, it has caused disruption of teaching, research and training. The Pandemic exacerbated the technology driven transition in the sphere of education, especially higher education, while the educational institutions claimed that they have moved their activities online, there are few studies, if any, on how this transition was received by the student community and how it affected their learning abilities. Nor we have any idea of how it affected the aspects of teaching and research. There is yet no study that can even remotely throw light on the pedagogy of online teaching. This situation is being presented as new 'normal' in the HEIs in the post pandemic world, but this new normal needs a critical reflection and introspection.

It is in this context that the National Education Policy 2020, becomes important as it serves as a vision document for the future. However, the direction given by the document is hardly clear leading to further confusion. The National Education Policy 2020, announced during pandemic, is claimed to fulfill the constitutional obligations pertaining to higher education. It has professed ideals like improving GER Ratio to 50% by 2030, spending 6% of GDP to higher education, encouraging non-profit privatization etc. But these appear to be more a rhetoric than ideals and goals to be pursued as there is no clear vision of raising neither the revenues nor guidelines for taming the juggernaut of privatization to function without profit. It is undoubtedly expected that this new normal may further strengthen the trinity and this National Conference attempts to pose some of the following questions for an in-depth discussion.
